MARSHALL DIES OF GALLOWS FOR CRIME

SUFFS VICTORIOUS; NO MOTION MADE TO RECONSIDER

NATIONWIDE SEARCH

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 20.—The Tennessee house today adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning without an attempt of the antisuffragettes to force reconsideration of the woman suffrage amendment. The motion was offered by a suffrage leader and carried by an overwhelming viva voce vote.

Filure of Speaker Walker to move reconsideration was taken as an indication that the opposition had not secured enough pledges to reacind its action in ratifying the amendment. This means that any member of the house may now move for reconsideration.

An attempt by the opposition to adjourn until Monday was voted down by the suffragists, 49 to 47, the same majority polled Wednesday on ratification. It was apparent that the suffrage and the opposition in their attempt to win additional strength at the expense of their antagonists.

The sair was repeated over and over. They regarded the victory as won beyond question.

The girl, with her sister, recently returned from a visit to N. w Mexico. She had suffered intermittently from melancholia, relatives said, and she fraquently expressed the desire to engage in artistic work, especially as an interior decorator.

Monday night she left the Kimball residence, leaving a note asking her father and sister not to seek her. Her father has learned that she previously had inquired about the railroad fare to New York and that she cashed a $50 Liberty bond at a bank.

When she left home Miss Kimball was wearing a brown belted cloth Jersey jacket, brown and green plaid woof sport skirt, white waist and a small brown turban. This description is given by Mr. Kimball of his daughter:

Reaches Tupelo.

Marshall arrived in Tupelo this morning at 6:05 o'clock over the Frisco. He was in the custody of the sheriff of Abordeen, Miss., whose prisoner he has been since his conviction on charge of murder in the first degree. Sheriff Inman met the Aberdeen sheriff and the prisoner several miles down the road. The hanging was the sole topic of conversation in Tupelo today. Crowds began to arrive here early Thursday afternoon and by 9 o'clock this morning it was estimated that there was at least 2,000 persons here from surrounding territory. They were not permitted to view the hanging, but during the early hours of the morning many of them passed and repassed the hastily constructed building where Marshall was to die.

Marshall was executed in a two-story wooden building which has just been erected on the outside of the county fall in Court square, a few feet from the front steps of the county courthouse. The death house sits flush against the north wall of the jail building. Around the death house Sheriff Inman had erected a heavy wire fence about six feet from the building itself. The death house, containing the gallows, is two stories high. At the second floor level, on the north wall, is a doer opening from the gallows room onto a small platform. This platform Marshall aimest annihilated the fam-ily of Robert Miller, an Amory farmer, on Thursday night, Jan. 15. At the time he was on bond on a charge of violating the age of consent law. Fan-nie, 18-year-old daughter of Miller, was the mother of Marshall's illegitimate child.

Marshall dynamited the Miller house.
Then with a shotgun he fired through a window into the house. He killed Robert Miller, Leonard Miller, 16-year-old son, and Fannie Miller,
"Burley," Marshall's illegitimate child, aged eight months, was the fourth and a stick of stove wood, Marshall best

May Miller, aged 13, escaped the fate of the other members of her fanily by elimbing into the loft. She witnessed the killing of her father, sister and brother, then saw Marshall dash out the brains of the baby and pour kerosene about the Miller premises and set fire to the house. The girl escaped after the Killer had departed. She told neighbors of the terrible sight she had witnessed and named Marshall as the man who committed the murders. It was her testimony which convicted Marshall.

The crowds began to arrive here Thursday afternoen. A particularly large delegation came from Amory, the scene of the crime. The crowd was orderly at all times. About a dozen men, including two guards, spent the night at the base of the death house. The guards were put on by Sheriff Inman because of rumors that a public hanging was going to be insisted upon by reighbors of the Millers. It was feared that an effort would be made to tear down the walls of the death house during the night to afford the crowd a view of the hanging. These rumors were groundless, no effort at any violence being made at any time.

Shortly after sunup this morning, a crowd began to gather in Court square.
